

Wednesday, October 18, 2006
4:15pm-5:45pm

FILM FESTIVAL

A special session will offer educational videos and films on cross-cultural health topics. Filmmakers will be present to describe their work, receive feedback and answer questions. Refreshments will be served.

Working Together to End Racial and Ethnic Disparities: One Physician at a Time

The video presents real experiences that physicians, office staff and patients have had with racial and ethnic disparities in health care delivery. The cases and perspectives are designed to stimulate discussion and thought.

Gloria Boone, MPH, Scientist, American Medical Association (Chicago, IL)

Culture and ConneXions: Understanding your Patients

Designing care that is culturally competent: The video is meant to assist monolingual healthcare providers in understanding the intricacies of dealing with a patient from a different culture.

Lisa Morris, Director of Cross Cultural Initiatives, Office of Community Programs, University of Massachusetts Medical School (Shrewsbury, MA)

The Culture of Emotions: A cultural competence and diversity training program

Culture introduces the DSM-IV Outline for Cultural Formulation (OCF), which provides a structured methodology for the assessment and diagnosis of culturally diverse individuals across diagnostic categories. Twenty-three eminent multi-ethnic psychiatrists, psychologists, medical anthropologists and social workers contribute their perspectives throughout the program.

Francis G. Lu, MD, Professor of Clinical Psychiatry, University of California, San Francisco (San Francisco, CA)