Do you have a health program or research project on culturally diverse patient populations that you'd like to share with your colleagues? Have you gone through some tough times and obtained some hard-won Lessons Learned you think others would benefit from?

Perhaps you feel like your voice is one that's not being heard and you have something to say. We, at DiversityRx, hope you will speak up and write a blog to share. To participate, go to "Create a Blog" form and get going.
